ABSTRACT

A wide variety of educational materials regarding American Indians has been collected by the Educational Resources Information Center (ERIC) system; this guide was prepared to help anyone who is seeking that information to find it. It lists the addresses and telephone numbers of the 16 ERIC clearinghouses and the educational areas for which each is responsible. It describes ERIC's functions, what kinds of documents it uses, where the documents come from and who uses the system. Procedure is given for conducting both computer and manual searches of the data base with detailed descriptions devoted to the use of descriptor and identifier retrieval terms under which all documents are indexed. A listing of the commonly used American Indian descriptors and identifiers is given. Use of the ERIC reference books, including the "Thesaurus", the monthly "Resources in Education" abstract journal, and the monthly "Current Index to Journals in Education" is also explored. Because documents may be viewed at any of the ERIC microfiche collections, a directory of microfiche collections in all states with a significant Indian population is appended. Also included is information on how to order documents from the ERIC Document Reproduction Service. Names of American Indian organizations and publications as well as federally recognized Indian groups are also included in the appendix along with a glossary of ERIC terminology. (DS)

I. INTRODUCTION

The purpose of this guide is to acquaint the American Indian linker person who is involved with the education of American Indians to the Educational Resources Information Center (ERIC) system, whether they be a librarian, tribal liaison person, or educational specialist, in order that they might avail themselves of the educational materials collected by the ERIC system.

The American Indian is no stranger to the collection, storage and dissemination of educational materials. Historically they have transmitted their culture and taught each succeeding generation the skills, concepts and principles of their culture, thereby preserving and developing it.

"Traditional Native American information science was a very highly developed and heavily utilized area of activity, and one which was a vital part of each Native nation's culture. Contrary to what some non-Indians may believe, each generation of Native people did not start out in ignorance. Knowledge and information were developed, refined, stored, and transmitted in every Native American society.

In Mexico and parts of Central and South America, Native people possessed formal libraries with large numbers of "books" or other records housed within. North of Mexico such records were represented by Wampum belts, carved or painted memory-sticks, paintings on skins, and paintings or carvings on rock surfaces. These records were, though, only supplementary to the major form of information-storage which was the training of the human mind as a living depository of knowledge.

Native people stored, in their minds and on their memory-sticks, vast amounts of data including, for example, the names, characteristics, and usages of many hundreds of plants; the names, habits, and usages of hundreds of animals and insects; the exact verses and content of many songs, chants, stories, sandpaintings, and historical epics; the exact texts of many treaties between tribes and with non-Indian governments; the geographical characteristics of large areas; the precise movements, prayers, and procedures associated with a particular ceremony; the movements and characteristics of solar bodies; the details of food-producing, storing, and preparation technology; and, finally, the vocabulary and grammar of one, two or more quite divergent Native languages or dialects and, in the Plains and other areas, the knowledge of a fantastic invention, the sign-language."¹

¹Forbes, Jack D. The Potential Role of Libraries and Information Services In Supporting Native American Cultures and the Quality of Life of Native People; a paper prepared for The White House Pre-Conference on Indian Library and Information Services On or Near Reservations, Denver, Colorado October 19-22, 1978, pp 1 & 2.

INDIAN WORLD
LAND OF THE LIVING SPIRIT

This montage depicts the transition of the American Indian from ancient living modes through today's technological age. It has become a trademark of "Indian World - Land of the Living Spirit." Prints of this painting will be found in the lobbies of banks and other institutions as a symbol of support.

This guide, then, is to acquaint the American Indian community via the Indian "linker person," to the educational collection system entitled ERIC in order that the Indian people may exercise self determination through informed decision making.

The author believes this objective is best illustrated in the montage entitled: INDIAN WORLD, LAND OF THE LIVING SPIRIT, which depicts the American Indian moving freely between the traditional Indian world and the present-day world of technology.

II. A DESCRIPTION OF THE ERIC SYSTEM

A. WHAT IS ERIC?

ERIC stands for Educational Resources Information Center. It is sponsored by the National Institute of Education (NIE), the educational research arm of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW). It consists of a decentralized nationwide network of 16 clearinghouses which collect educational documents and make them available to the user. Each clearinghouse specializes in a different multi-discipline, educational area and has the responsibility for acquiring significant educational literature within their particular areas; selecting the highest quality and most relevant material; processing it by cataloging, indexing, and abstracting it; and finally, providing information analysis products and various user services. The ERIC clearinghouses, with their full addresses and telephone numbers are listed below. Following the list of clearinghouses is a map which indicates where each clearinghouse and microfiche collection is located. (See Appendices A and B for addresses and sources of microfiche collections, microfiche readers and microfiche reader printers)

Note!

B. WHAT DOES ERIC DO?

- * Collects, screens, organizes, and disseminates reports.
- * Furnishes copies of educational documents at nominal cost.
- * Acts as an archive of educational literature.
- * Prepares interpretative summaries, research reviews, and bibliographies on critical topics in education.
- * Services information centers throughout the country.
- * Answers education information questions.
- * Facilitates research activities and saves time.
- * Offers organized information source.
- * Offers a quick reference service.
- * Offers a consolidated information system.

C. WHERE DO DOCUMENTS IN ERIC COME FROM?

They come from YOU

What happens to a contributed document?

1. A thank you card is sent to the author.
2. If accepted, a reproduction release must be obtained from the author or sponsoring agency.
3. The document is catalogued, abstracted (no more than 200 words), and is indexed (using the ERIC Thesaurus).
4. Completed documents are shipped each week to a central processing facility (Bethesda, Maryland).
5. After much technical processing and filming, documents are announced in RESOURCES IN EDUCATION (RIE), ERIC's monthly announcement journal.
6. Notification of the announcement of the contributed document is sent to the author.

7. The document is now available from the ERIC Document Reproduction Service (EDRS).
8. A free microfiche of the contributed document is sent to the author.
9. Elapsed time from contribution to announcement is usually 2-3 months.

How can you contribute documents to ERIC?

ERIC needs one copy of the clearest print available (an excellent xerox is acceptable).

Authors may contribute directly to the clearinghouse most relevant to their paper or ERIC will be glad to transfer it for them.

The process is facilitated if the authors (1) include author abstracts and (2) indicate that they want the material evaluated for inclusion in the ERIC system.

ERIC is interested in all manner of reports, curriculum materials of all sorts, bibliographies, presented papers, etc.

D. WHAT KINDS OF DOCUMENTS OR PUBLICATIONS DOES ERIC USE?

In recent years much research has been conducted on Indian Education and ERIC has been able to acquisition and to select a certain number of documents. The American Indian linker person is encouraged to contact American Indian organizations, tribal and community education committees and consult American Indian publications regarding potential information sources available on Indian Education which could be included in the ERIC system. A list of such organizations and publications is given in Appendices C and D. A list of federally recognized Indian groups which should prove useful to the linker person is included in Appendix E.

ERIC would also like to be given the opportunity to examine, for possible inclusion in the system, documents relating to American Indian education from document producers, institutions, and American Indian organizations. Examples of the types of materials which ERIC collects are listed below:

Books

Collected Works

- General
- Proceedings
- Serials

Creative Works (Literary and Dramatic)

Dissertations/Theses

Guides/Methods/Techniques (For Practitioners)

- General
- Classroom Use
 - Instructional Materials (For Learner)
 - Teaching Guides (For Teacher)
- Non-Classroom Use (For Administrative and Support Staff, and Teachers in Non-Classroom Situations)

Historical Materials

Information Analyses/State-of-the-Art Materials

Journal Articles

Legal/Legislative/Regulatory Materials

Non-Print Media

Numerical/Quantitative Data

Opinions/Personal Viewpoints/Position Papers/Essays

Reference Materials

- General
- Bibliographies
- Directories/Catalogs
- Geographic Materials
- Vocabularies/Classifications

Reports

- General
- Descriptive (Program/Project Descriptions)
- Evaluative/Feasibility
- Research/Technical

Speeches, Conference Papers, "Papers Presented at..."

Tests, Questionnaires, Evaluation Instruments

Translations

Formal publication is not an ERIC requirement. ERIC concentrates on unpublished or "fugitive" material, not usually available through conventional library channels.

There are no fees to pay in submitting documents to ERIC nor does ERIC pay any royalties for material it accepts. Other than a statement concerning permission to reproduce (Reproduction Release) there are no forms to complete.

E. WHO USES ERIC?

TEACHERS SCHOOL ADMINISTRATORS RESEARCHERS INFORMATION SPECIALISTS
PROFESSIONAL ORGANIZATIONS GRADUATE AND UNDERGRADUATE STUDENTS
ANYONE INTERESTED IN EDUCATION

TEACHERS USE ERIC:

- To obtain the latest information on preservice and inservice training;
- To learn about new classroom techniques and materials; and
- To discover "how-to-do-it" projects for personal and professional development.

SCHOOL ADMINISTRATORS USE ERIC:

- To identify new and significant educational developments;
- To apply new management tools and practices; and
- To base budget estimates on the latest research data.

RESEARCHERS USE ERIC:

- To identify new and significant educational developments;

To avoid duplication of research efforts; and

To obtain full-text documents on research.

INFORMATION SPECIALISTS USE ERIC:

To compile bibliographies and summaries on specific educational topics;

To search ERIC publications for answers to inquiries; and

To locate and order documents for local information centers.

PROFESSIONAL ORGANIZATIONS USE ERIC:

To assist members in keeping abreast of research in a specific area of education;

To inform members of significant developments in peripheral or related areas of education.

To keep members up-to-date on information systems; and

To assist communities, tribal leaders, and program directors in utilizing ERIC for the improvement of their existing program or beginning a new program.

GRADUATE AND UNDERGRADUATE STUDENTS USE ERIC:

To gain access to the latest information for preparing term papers, theses, and dissertations;

To obtain information on career development in education; and

To build a personalized, low-cost library on education.

ANYONE INTERESTED IN EDUCATION MAY USE ERIC:

To learn about continuing adult education;

To explore the role of parents in the schools; and/or

To understand new legislation on education.

III. THE ERIC SEARCH/TERMS AND ERIC REFERENCE BOOKS/TOOLS

In order to do an ERIC Search there are terms and reference books which American Indian linker persons will need to use when structuring their search strategies. These terms and a brief description of them are listed below:

A. DESCRIPTORS

Descriptors are technically meaningful single or multi-word concept terms used to characterize, to index, and to retrieve documents that have been submitted into the ERIC data base. These terms have been incorporated into the THESAURUS OF ERIC DESCRIPTORS. The THESAURUS lists the specific term and its definition (if applicable); it also provides a listing of other terms that are broader, narrower, or are related to the concept described by the term. Since ERIC uses a coordinate indexing system, several descriptors can be used together to provide retrieval of narrowly defined topics.

Descriptors may be used as major or minor retrieval terms. Such usage is based on the relative importance of a concept in each particular document. Major descriptors are always preceded by an asterisk.

Examples of American Indian descriptors found in the THESAURUS OF ERIC DESCRIPTORS are American Indian Languages, American Indian Culture, and Alaska Natives. For an analysis of frequently used descriptors, please see the "Frequency List of Selected ERIC Descriptors and Identifiers Used With American Indian Documents, 1970-1977." That list is found on page 26.

B. IDENTIFIERS

Recognizing the need to create a relatively "free" and open subject indexing field that was not rigidly defined, structured, and controlled like Descriptors (terms found in the Thesaurus), the ERIC system created the Identifier field.

Proper names of persons, tribal entities, geographic locations, American Indian organizations, trade names, projects, acronyms, coined terminology, etc. are useful and important indexable information. Identifiers are highly specific, useful access points for the user, used to identify rather than describe subjects. Such terms never become descriptors.

The following are examples of terms which could be used as identifiers within the ERIC data base:

Personal Names

1. Identifier(s): Montezuma (Carlos S)
Chief Crazy Horse
Eastman (Charles Alexander)
Pocahontas

American Indian Tribal Entities

2. Identifier(s): Winnebago (Tribe)
Jicarilla Apache (Tribe)
Navajo (Nation)
Yakima (Nation)

Geographic Locations

3. Identifier(s): Grand Canyon
New Mexico (Teec-Nos-Pos)
Columbia River
Arizona (Lukachukai)

Professional Organizations

4. Identifier(s): National Indian Education Association
National Congress of American Indians
Coalition of Indian Controlled School Boards
North American Indian Womens Association

Philanthropic Foundations

5. Identifier(s): Rockefeller Foundation
Ford Foundation
Donner Foundation
Carnegie Foundation

Educational Institutions

6. Identifier(s): Rough Rock Demonstration School
Institute of American Indian Art
Bacone College
Navajo Community College

Federal Agencies

7. Identifier(s): Department of Interior
Bureau of Indian Affairs
Indian Health Service
Department of Commerce

Acronyms

8. Identifier(s): National Indian Education Association; NIEA
National Advisory Council on Indian Affairs; NACIE
American Indian Higher Education Consortium; AIHEC
National Tribal Chairman's Association; NTCA

Coined Terminology

9. Identifier(s): Backlash
Pan Indianism
Red Power
Manifest Destiny

Another use of the identifier field is as a testing ground for potential descriptors. Once a concept term has gained sufficient use and acceptance within the ERIC data base, a procedure is followed in which the concept term is placed in the THESAURUS. An example of an identifier which is a potential descriptor is the multi-word term, American Indian Education. Before the data base became so large, the concept of American Indian education was retrieved using the coordinate terms American Indians and Education. In order to provide specificity in an ever growing data base, however, the singular term is now being used.

For a discussion of Identifier rules established by the ERIC/CRESS American Indian Task Force, see page 22.

For an analysis of frequently used identifiers, please see the "Frequency List of Selected ERIC Descriptors and Identifiers Used With American Indian Documents, 1970-1977." That list is found on page 26.

C. REFERENCE BOOKS/TOOLS

In addition to the terms, Descriptors and Identifiers, which have been discussed previously, the ERIC searcher will also need to be familiar with a number of reference books. These, with a brief discussion, are listed below: (See Appendix F for a Glossary of these and other ERIC terms)

Thesaurus of ERIC Descriptors: The Search Vocabulary

The Thesaurus contains the descriptors that are used to index and to enter documents into the ERIC system and to retrieve documents from the system.

Resources in Education (RIE): Your Monthly Index to Documents in the ERIC System:

A monthly abstract journal announcing recently completed research reports, descriptions of outstanding programs, and other documents of educational significance indexed by subject, author, and institutional source. Cumulative semi-annual indexes are available.

Current Index to Journals in Education (CIJE): Your Monthly Index to Periodical Literature:

CIJE is a monthly guide to periodical literature in education. More than 700 major educational and education-related publications are covered in CIJE. This index includes a main entry section with some annotations and is indexed by subject, author, and journal titles. Annual cumulative indexes are available.

Directory of ERIC Microfiche Collections:

This Directory lists every organization with a sizeable ERIC microfiche collection. It is organized alphabetically by state and by cities within each state for the convenience of the user.

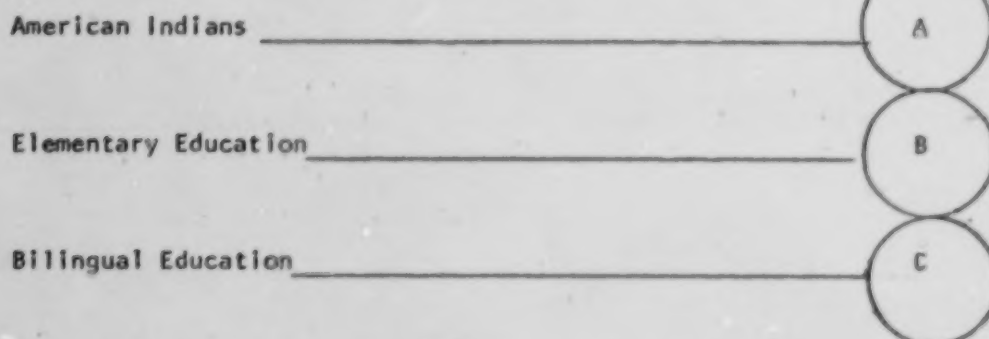

Survey of ERIC Data Base Search Services: Your Guide to Organizations with Computer Search Capabilities:

This document lists and describes briefly the organizations which are currently providing computerized searches of the ERIC Data Base. This publication is organized alphabetically; entries are grouped by state and by city within each state.

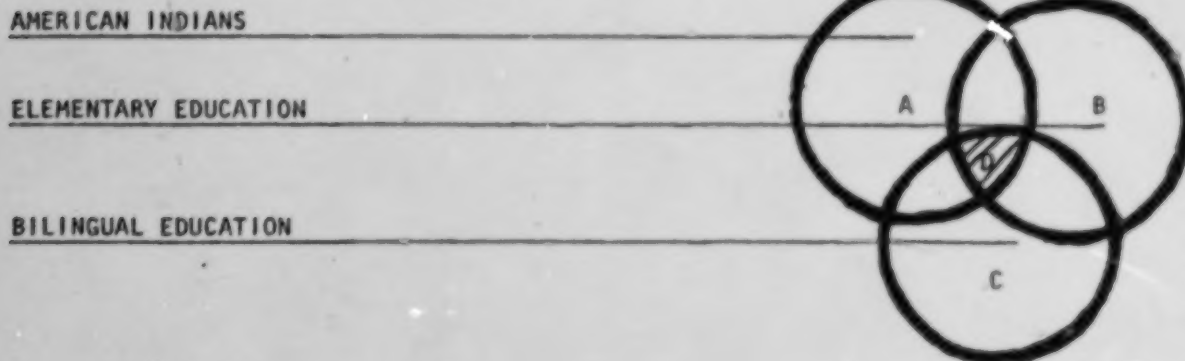

IV. THE AMERICAN INDIAN LINKER PERSON BEGINS A SEARCH

Any collection of books, reports, or recorded information is of value only when the items in the collection can be retrieved. Having been introduced to ERIC's principal index terms, Descriptors and Identifiers, the user is now ready to begin an ERIC search for American Indian documents.

The searcher has two options for doing a search. He may request a computer search which is an effective method of retrieving information. This can be ordered through an ERIC Data Base Search Service. Should the linker person choose this option, a small charge is generally made for the service. This charge varies according to the computer search service used to make a search. Depending upon what the individual wants to know, a search analyst will select the appropriate terms for a computer search from the ERIC Thesaurus, and a strategy will be formed for information retrieval. A computer search on the subject of American Indian Elementary Education and Bilingual Education, for example, would involve three "sets" of documents: one dealing with American Indians, one with Elementary Education, and one with Bilingual Education. The diagram below illustrates these concepts:

The search analyst would choose Descriptors Indexing American Indians, Elementary Education, Bilingual Education and by "crossing" them would select, from the ERIC files, material dealing with all three concepts. The shaded area in the Venn diagram below shows the specificity with which documents can be retrieved if exact Descriptors are used.

The user could use the second alternative of doing a "hand search." While this would involve more time, the searcher would have free access to the materials. A searcher would then go to his/her nearest clearing-house or microfiche collection. Using the same example employed before of a person wanting information about American Indian Elementary Education and Bilingual Education, he/she would use the Thesaurus of ERIC Descriptors, to locate the descriptors as they are listed in the Thesaurus:

As the searcher will see from the list of terms taken from the Thesaurus, there are a large number of terms. The searcher would select such broad terms (BT), narrow terms (NT) or any other terms he or she might think useful in doing a search such as the following to begin his search:

American Culture (BT)
American Indian Culture (RT)

Ethnic Groups (BT)
Elementary Secondary Education (B)
Encouragement of Bilingualism through the Teaching of Regular School Courses in Both the NATIONAL Language
and a Second Language (SN)

With these terms the researcher would then go to the Subject Index in RESOURCES IN EDUCATION (RIE) for current documents on the subject.

Now check ERIC's second index, Current Index to Journals in Education, in order to extend the search to periodical literature. Check through the CIJE Cumulative Indexes, using the same Descriptors. Please note that articles in CIJE use the identifying number EJ.

Once the searcher is satisfied that he or she has located a number of relevant documents, he or she should go to the nearest library for copies of journal articles. Clearinghouses and Microfiche Collections do not keep copies of journal articles.

If the researcher finds sufficient material in Resources In Education and does not wish to look at journal articles, he or she may now look at the Resume Section to read the abstract of the document. These sections are clearly marked and the identifying numbers (ED) appear consecutively. The searcher then determines whether he or she wants to obtain the full text of the document. This information on availability is given in each resume and ordering information can be found in Appendix G. A sample of a typical abstract is given below. In addition, the reader will find the microfiche on the following page.

Under federal funding and with assistance from the Choctaw Indian Tribe, Mississippi State University has developed a teacher training program for Choctaw students who are majoring in elementary education. Students who take courses in the bilingual/bicultural education curriculum obtain knowledge and skills in the following areas: (1) development and construction of teaching materials in a language other than English; (2) knowledge of syntax and grammar of a second language (in this program, Choctaw is the target language); (3) teaching methodology for teaching English as a second language; (4) an appreciation of cultural and language differences of people and the contribution of these differences to our society; and (5) the law and bilingual education in this country. V. IDENTIFIER RULES RECOMMENDED BY THE ERIC/CRESS AMERICAN INDIAN TASK FORCE

In September of 1976 ERIC/CRESS began a special one-year project to increase American Indian involvement in the development and use of the ERIC data base. An 11 member American Indian Task Force was constituted to reflect different levels of involvement and areas of interest in the field of Indian education. Although the formal project has been completed, various members of the original Task Force have remained very generous in contributing their time and expertise toward making ERIC more responsive to Indian needs.

This users' guide, in fact, is the result of recommendations made by the Task Force. Another area they addressed was the matter of Identifiers. Because the great majority of American Indian retrieval terms are found in the Identifier field, the Task Force felt it was necessary to develop a set of Identifier rules to facilitate ready access to the ERIC data base. Although specifically recommended for use by indexers in preparing documents for the ERIC system, the rules also provide guidelines for users on how to look for materials in certain categories. The rules are as follows:

- Rule 1: When an American Indian tribe is the subject of a document, the name of that tribe will be reflected in the Identifier field where the tribal name will appear followed by (Tribe).

Sample Identifier: Umatilla (Tribe)
Coordinate Descriptor(s): American Indians
Canada Natives
Alaska Natives
Eskimos

- Rule 2: When an American Indian Tribal language is the subject of a document and that language is not a Descriptor (listed in the Thesaurus of ERIC Descriptors), that language name will be reflected in the Identifier field, where the language name will appear followed by the term (Language) in parentheses.

Sample Identifier: Southern Ute (Language)
Coordinate Descriptor(s): American Indian Languages
Ute Aztecan Languages
American Indians

- Rule 3: When the subject of a document is an American Indian tribe outside the United States, the name of that tribe will be reflected in the Identifier field where the tribal name will appear followed by the term (Tribe) in parentheses, along with the name of the country where the tribe resides.

Sample Identifier: Kwakiutl (Tribe); Canada
Coordinate Descriptor(s): Canada Natives
American Indians
Alaska Natives

Rule 4: When the name of a band within a tribe is used in conjunction with the tribal name to form a collective noun and when that collective noun is the subject of a document, the collective name will be reflected in the Identifier field followed by the term (Tribe) in parentheses to indicate tribal name.

Sample Identifier: St. Regis Band of Mohawks (Tribe)
Coordinate Descriptor(s): American Indians
Canada Natives

Rule 5: When the American Indian Tribe identifies itself as a nation and when that identification is a major subject of the document, the national identification, rather than merely the tribal identification will be reflected in the Identifier field.

Sample Identifier: Navajo Nation
Coordinate Descriptor(s): American Indians

Rule 6: Since variations in the spelling of American Indian Tribal names may reflect differences in tribal identity and/or geographic location, variants of a given name will be reflected in the Identifier field when the people named constitute the subject of the document.

Sample Identifier: Oto (Tribe) or Otoe (Tribe)
Coordinate Descriptor(s): American Indians

Rule 7: When the subject of a document includes names and labels developed by anthropologists and applied to American Indians, these names and labels will be reflected in the Identifier field where the term (Anthropological Label) will appear in parentheses.

Sample Identifier: Plains Indians (Anthropological Label); United States
Coordinate Descriptor(s): American Indians
Canada Natives

Rule 8: When the name of a geographic location, as distinct from the name of a tribe, is the major subject of a document, the name of that location will be reflected in the Identifier field.

Sample Identifier: New Brunswick Reserve; Canada
Coordinate Descriptor(s): Canada Natives
Reservations (Indian)

In summation, Identifiers are highly specific, useful access points that are not rigidly defined, structured or controlled. They comprise a very important part of the subject indexing field enabling the user to search more effectively the ERIC database.

VI. FREQUENCY OF DESCRIPTOR AND IDENTIFIER USAGE

It is often helpful when constructing a search to have an idea of past usage of Descriptors and Identifiers. Inquiries are frequently received regarding retrieval terms and the frequency with which they have been used in indexing ERIC holdings. An analysis of usage over time is also useful in highlighting vocabulary trends and ERIC system growth.

ERIC terms are responsive to use and to need. Although certain basic concepts have been in existence a long time, ways of retrieving those concepts have changed from time to time. When the data base was smaller, some terms were often used coordinately to retrieve a general area, such as American Indians and Education to retrieve American Indian Education. The growth of the data base, with recommendations from the ERIC/CRESS American Indian Advisory Task Force and the ERIC/CRESS American Indian Specialist, has led to the use of more specific multi-word terms. These concept terms are in the process of evolving from Identifiers to Descriptors..

The ERIC/CRESS American Indian Specialist used the subject index of seven annual CRESS American Indian education bibliographies to analyze past term usage and frequency of American Indian terms and other terms used in conjunction with American Indian terms. In general, terms were selected that had been used at least five times in any given year. It is important to remember three things:

1. both Descriptors (+) and Identifiers(-) are combined in the list;
2. absence of initial usage does not mean the concept was absent or not indexed during that time; other terms or combinations of terms were probably used;
3. although Identifiers have always existed in the ERIC system, Identifiers are shown only for 1977 because prior to that time ERIC/CRESS was technically unable to incorporate Identifiers into their search strategy for bibliographies.

In short, the following "Frequency List of Selected ERIC Descriptors and Identifiers Used With American Indian Documents, 1970-1977" is not fixed in stone but is intended as a guide to assist the searcher in getting a "feel" for the vocabulary of the ERIC data base.

For a listing of the specific bibliographies used for developing the frequency list, or for information on ERIC/CRESS' other American Indian information analysis products, please contact the American Indian Specialist.

MICROFICHE READER PRINTER

A user cannot only view the fiche but also have a paper copy by means of a microfiche reader/printer. A paper copy (hard copy) of individual pages from that microfiche makes it possible for the American Indian user to have the benefit of the microfiche reader and to have the constant availability of hard copy individual pages.

The following is an alphabetical list of distributors and/or manufacturers of microfiche reader/printers. This list is strictly informational, not comprehensive, nor does it imply a recommendation for any brand. The ERIC system does not promote or recommend specific brands.

APPENDIX F

GLOSSARY OF ERIC TERMINOLOGY

Abstract

A tersely written, 200-word narrative description of the subject content and scope of a document. Each citation in RIE includes an abstract.

Alphabetical Descriptor Display

Main section of the Thesaurus, listing all Descriptors in alphabetical order and also providing synonyms; narrower, broader, and related terms; usage postings; and a date indicating when the Descriptor was adopted for usage.

Annotation

A brief (no more than 50 words), succinct explanation or description of a particular work. Annotations are written for journal articles (CIJE entries) whose titles are not sufficient to convey content adequately.

Author Index

Found in RIE and CIJE; lists personal authors in alphabetical order by last name, with titles of their documents which are in ERIC and/or articles indexed and the ED or EJ number for each.

Boolean Algebra

A system for showing relationships between sets of terms. Uses logical operations (usually AND, OR, and NOT) in the design of computer search strategy, to expand, limit, or exclude certain items from the search output.

Broader Term (BT)

A Descriptor that is a member of a class that totally contains a smaller class (also represented by a Descriptor) within it. For example, BIBLIOGRAPHIES is a Broader Term to ANNOTATED BIBLIOGRAPHIES. Found in the Thesaurus.

Central ERIC (CERIC)

The organizational unit within NIE responsible for the ERIC network, its budgeting, funding, planning, program development, monitoring, and policy setting. All ERIC contractors (e.g., ERIC Facility, EDRS, Clearinghouses, CIJE Contractor, etc.) report to Central ERIC.

Clearinghouse (Ch)

A contractor within the ERIC network that takes responsibility for the acquisition and processing of materials in one of the major areas of the field of education, e.g., Information Resources; Higher Education; Educational Management; Early Childhood Education. ERIC Clearinghouses have traditionally been located within non-profit institutions such as universities or professional associations; the exact number (currently 16) varies with the shifting needs of the educational community. A list of Clearinghouses, with addresses and phone numbers, is given on page 3.

Computer Search

Examination by computer of a data base for information on a given topic. Useful for its capacity to derive relationships between sets of terms (using Boolean algebra). For example, the computer can look through all the materials on Curriculum Development and all the materials on Library Education, combine the two sets, and provide the searcher with only those items which contain each of the two concepts.

Current Index to Journals in Education (CIJE)

A monthly index to the periodical literature covering over 700 major education and education-related publications. It includes a main entry section with annotations, and is indexed by subject, author, and journal contents.

Data Base

A file of data, usually in machine-readable language. The ERIC data base contains the information that is printed in CIJE and RIE.

Descriptor

An index term of one or more words, found in the ERIC Thesaurus, which can be chosen for the purpose of describing, characterizing, or indexing the subject content of a document or journal article. ERIC users can locate documents and articles by searching RIE and CIJE subject indexes using selected Descriptors.

Descriptor Group Display

Word by word alphabetical listing of Descriptors within Descriptor Groups; found in the back of the Thesaurus.

Descriptor Groups

A system of broad subject categories into which all Descriptors are grouped; currently there are 52. Found in the back of the Thesaurus with a scope note and a code number.

Document Resume

A compressed document description including cataloging and indexing information, and an abstract for each entry in RIE.

Document Resume Section

A section of RIE which includes the document resumes, arranged numerically by ED number, and grouped alphabetically by Clearinghouse prefix initials. (A list of these initials is found in the front of this section.)

Documents

Research papers, speech texts, studies, conference reports, curriculum studies, etc., that have been put into the ERIC system and listed in RIE.

ED Number

ERIC Document Number; an accession number assigned to titles in RIE and used to locate abstracts in the resume section as well as microfiche.

EJ Number

ERIC Journal Number; an accession number assigned to titles in CJE and used to locate article annotations in the main entry section.

ERIC

The acronym for Educational Resources Information Center.

ERIC Document Reproduction Service (EDRS)

The ERIC contractor responsible for filming documents, handling standing orders (subscriptions) for microfiche, and processing on-demand individual orders for both microfiche and hardcopy. Receives documents and data for this purpose from ERIC Facility. Address for ordering is P.O. Box 190, Arlington, Virginia 22210.

ERIC Processing and Reference Facility

The centralized computerized facility which accepts data from each Clearinghouse, prepares publications for GPO, builds and maintains the Thesaurus, and produces various products for use in the system. A wide variety of supporting functions are also performed, e.g., acquisitions, lexicography, data conversion, reference, tape distribution, forms control, scheduling. Address is 4833 Rugby Avenue, Suite 303, Bethesda, Maryland 20014.

ERICTAPES

Magnetic tape copies of the files of bibliographic data assembled by the ERIC system. Different files and formats are available from the ERIC Processing and Reference Facility.

ERICTOOLS

A series of printed indexes, directories, and cross reference lists providing manual access to the ERIC document collection by title, institutional sources, contract/grant number, and clearinghouse number. A descriptor/identifier usage report indicates the number of times various terms have been used in indexing ERIC documents. These are available from the ERIC Processing and Reference Facility.

Free-text Search

Computerized examination of the records in the data base for the presence of a given word or combination of words which are not necessarily descriptors or identifiers.

Government Printing Office (GPO)

Prints monthly issues of RIE from the magnetic tapes and distributes them to subscribers.

Hard Copy (HC)

A paper copy of a document; usually a full-size (100%) xerographic reproduction of the original. Reduced size copies may also be made.

Hierarchical Term Display (Two-Way)

A listing of Descriptors showing relationships between broader and narrower terms; found in the back of the Thesaurus.

Identifier

An index term for a specific entity, e.g., project, legislation, person, place, organization, coined term, acronym, or equipment. There are ERIC guidelines for the construction of Identifiers, but, unlike Descriptors, they are not formally controlled, defined, or structured; however, an authority list is being developed. Identifiers are intended to provide additional specialized indexing depth. Major Identifiers are listed in the Subject Index of RIE and CIJE. (See "Major Descriptors")

Indexing

The process of assigning Descriptors from the Thesaurus and Identifiers to documents and journal articles in order to describe their subject content for purposes of subsequent retrieval.

Information Analysis Products (IAPs)

Publications commissioned and produced by each Clearinghouse, including bibliographies, topical papers, literature reviews, directories, and state-of-the-art papers within the scope of interest of that Clearinghouse.

Institution Index

Found in RIE. This index lists document titles under the institution responsible for producing them and under their sponsoring agency when applicable. Arranged in alphabetical order by name of university, agency, association, etc.

Journal Contents Index

Located in the back of each issue of CIJE. This alphabetical listing of journals reviewed for that issue also indicates the titles of the articles indexed from each journal.

Level 1

A reproduction release on file from the author or institution for a particular RIE entry, and this document is made available throughout the system on microfiche and in hard (paper) copy through orders placed with the ERIC Document Reproduction Service (EDRS).

Level 2

A reproduction release on file from the author or institution for a particular RIE entry, stating that the document released may be made available throughout the system on microfiche only. The safeguard is that should the document become out-of-print, there will always be a copy in the ERIC files, which serve an archival function.

Level 3

The reproduction release not given for material submitted to a Clearinghouse. If the Clearinghouse should decide to enter this document in ERIC, it can only be cited with bibliographic information and an abstract, and the complete text is not included in the microfiche collection. The availability is always noted for Level 3 items.

Level Descriptors

Those Descriptors from the Thesaurus which identify the educational level being studied or toward which a document is directed, e.g., Elementary Education, Primary Grades, College Programs.

The Oryx Press

The commercial contractor currently responsible for publication and distribution of CIJE, hardbound RIE and CIJE indexes, the ERIC Thesaurus, and selected bibliographies. Address for placing orders is The Oryx Press, Suite 206, 3930 East Camelback Rd., Phoenix, Arizona 85018.

Main Entry Section

A section of CIJE which includes the article annotation, indexing terms, and journal citation. Arranged numerically by EJ number and alphabetically by Clearinghouse prefix initials. (A list of these initials is found in the front of CIJE.)

Major Descriptor

A Descriptor representing one of the major concepts contained in a document. Major Descriptors appear in the published indexes. In order to restrict the size of the indexes, no more than six (6) Descriptors may be designated as Major. A Descriptor is Major or Minor only in the context of a particular document or journal article where it is being used and not inherently. An asterisk (*) is used to denote a Major Descriptor in the Document Resume Section of RIE and the Main Entry Section of CIJE. (See "Minor Descriptor")

Manual Search

Looking up information on a given topic in the annual, semi-annual, and monthly issues of Resources in Education and Current Index to Journals in Education. Information is listed by subject, author, and institution in RIE; subject, author, and journal contents in CIJE.

Microfiche

A 4" x 6" (105mm x 148mm) flat sheet of film, containing reduced images of up to 98 pages per sheet. ERIC prepares microfiche for all Level I and II documents announced in RIE, using the COSATI/NMA standard (24x reduction; 98 frames in a 7 x 14 grid). Microfiche may be made of silver, diazo, or vesicular film. A microfiche reader or reader-printer is required to read the page image.

Minor Descriptor

A Descriptor assigned to a document and appearing in the printed Document Resume section of RIE, the Main Entry Section of CIJE, and in the machine (computer) record but not in the subject indexes of RIE or CIJE. (See "Major Descriptor")

Narrower Term (NT)

A Descriptor that is a member of a class totally contained in a larger class also represented by a Descriptor. For example, the term ANNOTATED BIBLIOGRAPHIES is said to be a Narrower Term than BIBLIOGRAPHIES because it designates a particular kind of bibliography. Found in the Thesaurus.

National Institute of Education (NIE)

Funding agency for ERIC, part of the Department of Health, Education, and welfare (DHEW). Created in 1972 by Congress "to help solve or to alleviate critical problems of American education through research and development." ERIC is part of NIE's dissemination service.

On Line System

A system in which a computer terminal is in direct and continuing communication via telephone hookup with the central processor of the computer. With an on line system, interaction between computer and searcher during the search process allows immediate feedback of results and immediate modification of the search request when desired.

Publication Type (Pubtype)

The Publication Type (or Document Type) field designed to carry a three-character numeric code, designating a broad category or type of document, followed by one or more Descriptors indicating more specifically the form of the document. It is emphasized that the purpose of the field is to describe the form of the document itself, not the subject of the document.

Postings

A new feature found in the alphabetical descriptor display of the 7th edition of the Thesaurus is a postings count which indicates the number of times each descriptor has been assigned to documents and journal articles in the system. Separate postings are given for RIE and CIJE.

Related Term (RT)

A term that is conceptually related in some way to another term; each term is thereby a "Related Term" of the other. Related Terms may be close in meaning, may have the same Broader Term, may be related in usage or application, and may have part-whole relationships. For example, ANNOTATED BIBLIOGRAPHIES sometimes contain ABSTRACTS. Found in the Thesaurus.

Reproduction Release

A form signed by an author designating that permission has been given to ERIC for entry of a document into RIE, and indicating permissible methods of reproduction.

Resources in Education (RIE)

A monthly journal of resumes announcing recently completed research reports, descriptions of projects and outstanding programs, and other documents of educational significance. It contains subject, author, and institution indexes.

Retrieval

The process of identifying, locating, and securing information from a data base.

Retrospective Search

An examination of the entire data base on a given topic.

Rotated Descriptor Display

A list of all Thesaurus Descriptors in which the complete terms for multi-word Descriptors are entered in alphabetical order by each word in the term. Used to trace a single word or concept which occurs in more than one Descriptor, e.g., Information, Information Retrieval, Community Information Services.

Scope Note (SN)

- A. A brief note found in the Thesaurus explaining usage of a Descriptor, Used to restrict usage or to clarify a Descriptor which may have alternative meanings. Not intended as a formal definition.
- B. Also, the explanation of the mission of each Clearinghouse which is used to define the acquisitions efforts and subject specialties of each Clearinghouse.

Search

A systematic attempt to identify documents on a given topic and/or of a specific type in a data base. Applies to both manual and computer inquiries. (See "Computer Search" and "Manual Search")

Search Interview

The method by which the searchers and the requestors discuss and define the topics to be covered in the search; the type, format, cost, and amount of information desired; and the purpose for which the material is to be used.

Search Strategy

The development of a logical arrangement of sets of terms in order to retrieve relevant materials from the data base. A search strategy is usually exemplified by a series of Descriptors, Identifiers, and free-text words, arranged in groups and interconnected by logical operators (usually AND, OR, and NOT). The selection and arrangement of elements within a set and the combination of the sets can be manipulated to determine the search output. (See Section on The American Indian Linker Person Begins a Search)

Selective Dissemination of Information (SDI)

A method of alerting people to the most recent reports or articles of potential interest in a data file.

Set

Any grouping of items of interest, e.g., Instructional Materials Center, Audiovisual Centers, Resource Centers. Used in computer searching.

Source Journal Index

Found in the front of CIJE. This is a list of journals indexed in CIJE, including publisher and address, price, frequency, reprint availability, and the two-letter code of the Clearinghouse which indexes the document.

Standing Order Customers (SOCs)

Those schools, libraries, departments of education, etc. that subscribe to and regularly receive the ERIC indexes and microfiche collection. There are more than 700 SOCs in the U.S. and abroad. A Directory of Microfiche Collections is available from the ERIC Processing and Reference Facility.

Subject Index

Found in RIE and CIJE. This index provides access to document and journal article titles through usage of Descriptors and Identifiers.

Thesaurus of ERIC Descriptors

A book containing the structured controlled vocabulary of over 5,000 educational terms used by ERIC which are called Descriptors. These terms are used in indexing and retrieving documents and journal articles in the ERIC system. New terms are added to the vocabulary as it becomes necessary and are included in the back of monthly and semi-annual RIE and CIJE volumes.

University Microfilms International (UMI)

This company is now providing a commercial reprint service for over 70% of the journals regularly covered by CIJE. The availability is found in the Source Journal Index in CIJE; address is 300 North Zeeb Road, Ann Arbor, Michigan 48106.

Use

A Thesaurus reference which refers the user from a term which is not a Descriptor to the term which is used as a Descriptor for the same concept.

Used For (UF)

Terms following the UF notation in the Thesaurus which are synonyms for variant forms of the main term. They are not Descriptors and cannot be used in manual searching.

APPENDIX G

ORDERING INFORMATION

Publications are either available from ERIC Document Reproduction Service (EDRS) or an alternate availability is given with the citation. Prices for microfiche (MF) or hard copy (HC) reproductions from EDRS are provided with each citation.

Before ordering any item, the RIE citation should be double checked. If the citation carries the statement NOT AVAILABLE FROM EDRS, an alternate availability is given. If the citation carries the statement HC NOT AVAILABLE FROM EDRS, the publication is available in microfiche only from EDRS. If neither of the foregoing statements appears with the RIE citation, it may be assumed that the publication is available from EDRS in microfiche and hard copy. Please use the order blank appended to this document when ordering microfiche or hard copy from EDRS.
